Accelerating our journey to the cloud, together

To focus on the world-class cloud experience you deserve, we are simplifying our self-managed offerings.

As an Atlassian customer, you're an important member of our community. Some of you have been with us for more than a decade, and as your needs have evolved, so have we. Today, the majority of you are already benefitting from the advantages of cloud, like streamlined administration, instant scalability, and quicker time to value. In fact, more than 90 percent of you start with Atlassian cloud products, with more server customers making the switch every day.

From staying ahead of the latest regulatory and security requirements to expanding our ecosystem with a new development platform and introducing flexible plans, we've continuously invested in our cloud tools so that your teams can work flexibly and innovate quickly.

We've also taken our cloud offerings to the next level by building a modern, intuitive, and unified experience across all our products to transform how your teams collaborate. We're leveraging automation and machine learning to reduce the time spent on repetitive tasks and enhancing our integrations to

Atlassian stands with Ukraine

As a company, as citizens of a global community, and as human beings, the horror of the Ukraine invasion rests heavy on our minds and hearts today.

To our customers, vendors, partners, and investors:

We are appalled by the actions of the Russian Government in its invasion of Ukraine. We condemn the actions of the Russian Government, and we stand with Ukraine and its people in their fight to maintain their freedom and sovereignty.

This attack is unprovoked and a clear breach of the Geneva Convention. Ukrainian civilians are being targeted, as are public buildings, places of work, and homes – where people should feel most safe.

As a company with thousands of employees and millions of users around the world, we take our responsibility very seriously as it relates to fundamentals like human rights. It is part of our mission and values to care for our people, customers, and communities, and the societies they exist in.

We have taken a number of immediate actions:

Our people

The Ukrainian invasion hits close to home for Atlassian. We have a number of Ukrainian team members who are contracted with us and we have taken immediate action to support their safety and security through our local partners. We are also providing ongoing support for those Atlassians with impacted family and friends during this difficult time. People are at the heart of what we do, meaning their wellbeing comes first – always.
